Beverly Stoddart is an author, writer, and speaker. She has published her essays in NH's largest newspaper, the Union Leader, and the Senior Beacon, and has a monthly column on InDepthNH.org and in the Windham Independent. Stoddart worked for newspapers for over 40 years, including at the Boston Herald and the Union Leader. Her new work is Stories from the Rolodex and tells how United Press International journalists worked in the 1960s, 1970s, and 1980s.

She and her husband own Effective Fitness, a personal training fitness facility in Londonderry, NH. She is a member of the New Hampshire Writers' Project and the Ohio Writers' Association. Stoddart is a member of, Winning Speakers, the local chapter of Toastmasters International.

A prized accomplishment was winning Carl Kassel's voice for her voice mail when she won the National Public Radio game, Wait Wait...Don't Tell Me! She has been married for 44 years to her husband, Michael, and has one son and two rescue dogs.

Meet Beverly in our Library on 1/27/21 at 2PM!

Our Winter Poem 2021

Winter's here, we all agree
 For there's snow on the ground and frost on the trees
 Above, the full Cold moon brightens the night
 Though the wintry wind gives us a fright
 The sticks we've gathered in a pile
 Will feed the fire for a long while
 With pierced marshmallows placed above the glow
 Our anticipation builds, along with the snow
 Planning wintry fun with those we love
 Sharing laughter amongst the flakes from above.

What are your predictions for the coming year?
 Lots of snow?
 Winter Olympic wins?
 Spring comes early?
 Summer is hot?
 What do you think?
 Maybe 2022 is looking up!

Things to look forward to:
 Winter Olympic games
 Wintry Outings
 New volunteers
 New games
 New speakers
 Music and Fun!!!
